Murder Laid to Heredity, Training

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Chicago.—The best efforts of a thoroughly prepared force of guards were required today to handle the hundreds of would-be auditors of Clarence S. Darrow, in the Franks case.

Hours before he was due to start the last chapter of his plea for the defense of the victim of the Chicago bar went back of the crime itself to trace from childhood the influences which had surrounded his growth. The effects of these he said, knowledge could not be told with certainty but limits of human knowledge were blamed for that.

Wealth Opened Doors.—"Wealth opening the doors to no ways which led to death of death, was the terrible misfortune in this terrible case," Mr. Darrow said and then he took up the cases of each of the boys, starting with Leach. He spoke of him as "Dicky" and said that the phantoms of being able to produce a "perfect crime" grew naturally from the youth's habitual reading of detective stories.

"His parents might have done better if they hadn't had any money," said Mr. Darrow.

"Let us be honest with each other," he said, "all know youth is without thought and without a care," and he drew audible comment from his audience as he added:

Quoted Paul's Epistle.—"Congressmen, judges, lawyers—yes, even state's attorneys—have in youth done something that was wrong. That they were not caught is their own good fortune." He quoted St. Paul's epistle:

"When I was a child, I saw as a child, spoke as a child, I thought as a child, but when I became a man, I put away childish things. Now I see as I see, I think as I think, I know as I know. But let us not forget it here."

Fault of Heredity.—"I know," he said, "better citizen of Chicago than the father of this boy," said Mr. Darrow, pointing to Leach. "I know there is no better citizen in Chicago than his mother. But I am going to be honest with this court. I am going to say that this crime was inherited by this boy from his ancestors. It is the fault of his heredity after he was born."

"To say that youth is responsible for its own actions independently of heredity and environment is a proposition that can no longer be defended by lawyer or judge."

If this boy had been understood and had he received the training which was proper for him, he would not have been in this court room today with his head hanging over his head."

Intellectual Machine.—"This intellectual machine was, of course, not understood by his father," said Mr. Darrow, and he launched into a dissertation of the Nietzschean philosophy of the super-man, beyond good or evil. He denounced that philosophy as "idolatry, and added:

SHOW HERD STOCK SAFE AFTER STORM

Water High at Wausau Fair Grounds—Prepare for State Fair Judging.

Severe storms and rains put a crimp into nearly every county fair held to date in Wisconsin.

The Wausau Inter-county fair last week also suffered from a series of storms, one of which came near wrecking the grounds. The Rock county herd animals, 75 strong, came through the storm without injury, and were shipped Saturday to be unloaded safely Sunday in West Allis for the Wisconsin state fair, opening Monday.

The yearling bull, killed by a fall-line tent pole, was owned by J. W. Lathrop, Deloit, Shorthorn breeder, who was exhibiting his own herd.

"The storm at Wausau is the worst experience I ever had on the show exhibit," declared Jack C. Nisbet, Rock county livestock agent, managing the show herd exhibit. "Everyone of us stayed up all night fighting to keep the tent up and our animals safe. The only tent that did stay up on the fair grounds, we took the big bulls and made them stand on the tops of the tent to keep the tent from blowing away. At times the water within the tent was so deep we had to keep the cattle standing all the time to keep from drowning. It was certainly a relief when the storm stopped and we landed safely. Water was two and three feet deep on the low places of the fair grounds. The Rock county junior club exhibit was shipped Saturday from Janesville in charge of Russell Clarke. The boys and girls left for West Allis Saturday or Sunday to be on hand for the club judging and demonstrations on Children's day at the state fair.

USE ALL BUT "MOO" IN DAIRY PRODUCTION
State Fair Park, Milwaukee.—"Use everything excepting the 'Moo,'" is the slogan of the University of Wisconsin's dairy demonstration at the state fair starting Monday.

"There is lots of waste on dairy farms," Harry Kline, head of the state dairy show at the fair, said as well in creameries and milk handling concerns. The university demonstration endeavors to show every drop of milk can be turned to advantage of the producer or the handler of the raw product.

The University's exhibit handles the subject by demonstrations, and illustration, showing the first return from dairy milk as the raw milk for human consumption, the simple process of reducing butter, the next simple process of reducing cheese, and finally the extraction of casein and sugar from the left-over elements, the manufacture of cottage cheese and whey products.

Going further into the process of the residuary element of the manufacture of casein glue and other strange commercial products from the milk are illustrated, and much information presented showing the great profit in money, that now is lost, to be gained from scientific use of the by-products of the dairy.

Price of Hash Takes a Tumble at State Fair
Milwaukee—Evidence of a tumble in the price of fair ground refreshments at the state fair this week was seen Monday in the appearance of huge signs on several locations announcing plate dinners for 25 cents each.

Five-cent ice cream cones and cheaper "hot dog" sandwiches also are prevalent on the signboards of the refreshment men.

State Prosecuting 20 Egg Buyers

Madison—Prosecution of 20 egg buyers for alleged failure to observe state marketing regulations has been started by the state department of markets. It was announced Monday by H. M. It is also declared that eight inspectors of the state department are working throughout the state to detect other violators of the egg marketing rules. Numerous other complaints are expected to be filed, it is said.

"Cool weather has been favorable for production of high quality eggs and shipments with spoiled eggs incidentally lessened on the part of the producer or shipper," Mr. Luckie said. "Strict attention to egg marketing regulations will do much to improve the grade of eggs going to market and will result in less loss and more money to the shipper."

VILAS WHALEY AT THE STATE FAIR

They have never denied the use of the property to the public and are asking only a price for the land. The county board, the county committee named by the supervisors to investigate a series of tracts for county park purposes.

Supervisors were present Sunday and gave a short program. But words are empty as compared to the actual inspection of the park. There is Stony Brook, usually a small and lazy stream, winding from the south pasture into the timber tract. Great hardwood trees, including giant elms that are monuments, all virgin timber, attract the brook carved its way through limestone rock formation until there are formations that are unusual and beautiful, the park being a miniature Wisconsin Dells. It is an ideal place for picnics, gatherings and meetings and even the pioneers, who were rich in timber, appreciated the park for its outstanding beauty and charm.

It is said he was so accurate with the nails he could kill a rabbit with the nails "plunging them against a tree."

Later Carver gained neighborhood fame by bringing in a highly prized stallion when horses reduced oxen. George Goff, Janesville, in his address reported that Lucius Fisher and C. B. Chase settled in 1837 and at one time engaged in a boundary dispute which was settled by the old age in Milwaukee, who made the brook the dividing line of their property. The brook runs into Turtle creek, a sizeable stream emptying into Rock river at Brook.

Jess Deamer operated a water-power mill 50 years ago and the older farmers will tell of "taking many a load of grain from this mill." The ruins of the mill, deep and old, are still visible and also the old lime kiln near by.

During the year 1864 when the district was stirred by the Civil war, a great community gathering was held at the park to celebrate the success of the Union arms, according to D. K. Latta, Clinton farmer.

Purchase Is Urged

Purchase of the place was urged, since the price is within line, to assure the public of this and other parks. Counties are first coming to realize the importance of recreational centers, especially so since the nearby lake shores are becoming forbidden property to the public with private ownership signs staring the visitor at every entrance.

No trees have been cut or the park despoiled by the owners. Construction of tables, fire-places, addition of litter boxes and a water supply would make the place an ideal park. To really popularize it, however, a good road from the trunk lines to the park will be necessary for the cars bunched over several rough places to reach the picnic Sunday.

Many Give Talks

Dr. C. W. Merriam, Deloit, a supporter long in favor of county parks, urged the purchasing of the property, relating how Cook county had forest reserves and Winnebago county has purchased a county park on Rock river.

A. H. Call, Waterville, N. Y., a visitor, declared that the place should be publicly owned.

Charles Reynolds, supervisor, was also in favor of buying the property.

P. A. Taylor, Janesville, tax supervisor, advocated buying at the present time as the "park was needed for the county, especially for city people and that later the price might not be so reasonable."

Ray Miller, Janesville, author of the park resolution, declared that many lake places were being closed to the public and before long admission to resort places would be closed to the general public.

George Goff and C. H. Christensen, candidates for district attorney, both spoke and were in favor of the place as public park.

T. E. Ashton, Evansville, declared the place "ideal for a park."

Charles Snyder, chairman of the county board, J. W. Lathers, Purdie, W. J. McKinney, a resident for 50 years in the Carver's Rock district, George Woodruff, Janesville, Charles Dayton, one of the early supervisors favoring the move for several years, Frank Thumann, D. K. Latta and others made short speeches.

HIRST SHOWS UP "BACK TAX" PLEA

Less Than Million Collected—Not Way to Reduce Expenses.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Beaver Dam—Sharp reduction in state expenditures is the best way to reduce taxes now levied in Wisconsin, A. H. Hirst, republican candidate for governor, said here Sunday, when he advocated an immediate reduction in taxes.

Mr. Hirst declared that statements to the effect that more than $3,000,000 in back taxes have been collected by the state during the past three years are untrue, saying that state tax commission records show less than $1,000,000.

"The statement is being repeated in this campaign that the present administration in its first three years has dug up unpaid income taxes totaling $3,250,000," Mr. Hirst said. "When in Madison last week I went into the tax commission office and found that the actual amount was $971,492.47. These statistics are official. As a matter of fact the total back income taxes levied amounted to only $1,536,442, and the offsets amounted to $227,248 and some of the balance has not been collected."

"We are not going to reduce taxes to any appreciable extent by digging up back income taxes, every cent of which should be dug up or by juggling with the facts and talking about shifting the burden. We can reduce them only in one way and that is by cutting the cost of government by spending less and levying less."

A Program for Wisconsin Prosperity

Factory—The factory creates for the Wisconsin farmer the finest of all markets—the Home Market—right at his door.

Farm—The foundation of our state's well-being. Every farm is a factory.

Home—Where all prosperity and well-being bear fruit. Wisconsin might well be called The State of Happy Homes.

"Doctor, Lawyer, Merchant, Chief," all owe their livelihood to production, their recreation and opportunity to Farm and Factory.

Message Number One

BELIEVING that the prosperity of Wisconsin depends upon the combined efforts of the producers of farm and factory—

Believing that the future holds even greater prosperity, provided our producers are not held back with unfair laws, high costs, and higher taxes than are collected in other states—

Believing that the world is the market for the products of Wisconsin factories and for the surplus from the farms; that sales in other states make better markets at home; that factories in Wisconsin bring money into the state, while factories in other states take money out—

Believing that if we are to have the best opportunities in Wisconsin for our citizens on the farms and in the factories, in business, in the professions, and for our children, we must work together for a broad, sane and progressive program—

Believing that our permanent prosperity depends entirely upon straight thinking today, this Association has decided to place before the citizens of the state some vital facts that concern our future.

There will be a series of straightforward messages. Watch for them, study them, and help build a permanent prosperity for Wisconsin.

A PARENT'S RESPONSIBILITY

Your son's or daughter's future is so important that the selection of a proper school merits your careful, deliberate consideration. You may plan a college education, but the proper time to secure a Business Education is BEFORE the college training, not AFTER. Ask those who have tried it. Besides being a help during the college course, a business training is an absolute necessity, no matter what profession your son or daughter may choose.

Janesville Business College

The school that has been educating the young men and women for executive and secretarial positions for over 20 years, has brought Business Training to a science. Its graduates are everywhere occupying positions of responsibility where ORDINARY ability is not enough.

Thoughts Of An Empty House

"I feel terribly conspicuous, with this big 'For Sale' sign hanging on me—but I don't seem to attract much attention, at that. I guess nobody wants to buy me.

"It's all I can do to hold my chimney up in a nice neighborhood like this. All these houses around me have families living in them and I know they look down on me because I don't have any family or friends or anything.

"There's an automobile stopping in front of me now, but it can't be anybody to see me. I've been empty for three months and the only person who's been around to look at me was some kind of a tax assessor.

"Say! I guess I'm wrong—my owner is showing me to those three men. They're coming in to look me over. I'm all excited over this!

"Sold! Can you beat that? That man who bought me said he'd have taken me three months ago, but he didn't know I was for sale until my owner put that ad in the Real Estate columns of the Gazette today.

"I might have known that!"

$23,000 SOUGHT IN 2 ACCIDENT SUITS

Beloit Woman Asks $3,000 for Death of Unborn Child.

Motor traffic accidents flared in two personal injury damage suits brought by Beloit women in the Rock county circuit court to be tried during the fall term. The complaints were filed Monday.

One case involves a new angle of law, the recovery of damages for the death of an unborn child. Under one recent decision, damages were collected by an expectant mother and the same principle is contained in some degree in the suit of Agnes Olson, who is seeking $3,000 damages from Porter Sullivan.

The plaintiff was riding in the car owned by Marie Cluskey, and the complaint claims that the car of the defendant was being driven in excess of the legal limit. A speed of 40 miles an hour is alleged. The complaint further charges that the defendant, driving at such a speed, lost control of the car and collided with the machine of Sullivan, left standing on the road. The complaint alleges that the car was left in the roadway, without lights and unattended.

In the crash, the plaintiff was injured severely, the complaint detailing a fractured skull, the complete loss of hearing, with only a partial recovery, internal injuries, being "left in a state of neurosis."

Council to Take Stand on Phone Company Petition

"The telephone subscribers of Janesville," said Mr. Cunningham, "may be assured that the complete probe of the situation will be launched and their interests protected."

van, Monroe, who was with him, were on their way to Elmhurst, where they have been working on a road job.

Aid Is Summoned.
Mr. Monahan stopped his car immediately and ran back to the scene of the accident. Anderson was still breathing so they returned to their car and made a fast trip to Elmhurst, where they notified Dr. E. C. Masters, foreman, Kurl Koester, Frank Cole, J. W. Meyer, Glenn Downing and John Hunkler.

After viewing the body, visiting the scene of the tragedy and hearing the testimony of witnesses, the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death, holding that Monahan was in no way to blame for Anderson's death through carelessness or negligence.

World War Veteran.
Mr. Anderson has a wife and father living in Minneapolis. He was a World War veteran and a member of the American Legion. On his forehead is a scar resulting from a shrapnel wound received during the war.

The body was taken to the undertaking rooms of C. A. Downing, where it is being held awaiting word from relatives.

Mr. Anderson was superintendent and sales manager of the Janesville plant, coming here from the Minneapolis office about six months ago. During the summer months he has been residing at Lake Keshong. Mr. Anderson had just started on his weekly sales tour at the time of the accident.

Highway 26 Now Paved Through All Janesville
Presenting a one-half mile stretch of smooth driving surface, equalling in workmanship the jobs recently completed on Pleasant, North Pearl, Fourth and Madison streets, the new and North Washington street, the new reinforced concrete pavement on Milton avenue extending from East street to St. Mary's avenue was thrown open to traffic at 6 p. m. Saturday. It was traversed by hundreds of automobiles Sunday. Detour signs which have been up for several weeks directing Highway 26 traffic over Garfield avenue were removed.

The completion of Milton avenue makes Route 26 a paved highway from one end of the city to the other, as the other part of Milton avenue from St. Mary's to the limits was paved with brick a number of years ago.

After being suspended while excavation and paving were in progress, street car service to the end of the line on Milton avenue was resumed at 6:30 a. m. Monday.

Excellent work was done by the paving forces Monday and one of the biggest days' runs of the summer was anticipated. Work is proceeding on Madison avenue, Glen, Walker and Monroe streets.

Diphtheria Case Breaks Record
Janesville's unprecedented health record of going two and one-half months without a single quarantinable disease came to an end Sunday when a young girl and woman was found to be suffering with diphtheria. She was removed to Detention hospital.

Dr. Fred B. Welch, city health officer, took throat cultures Monday of six people with whom she had come in contact and as soon as report from Madison can be secured on them they will be released.

"To my knowledge this is the longest period that the city has ever experienced without a quarantinable disease," said Dr. Welch.

NEWARK WOODMEN IN ANNUAL PICNIC
Pleasant Grove—The Woodmen of America held their annual picnic at Baker's Grove in the town of Newark on Saturday. A. H. Baldwin led the community singing and Miss Burdett Klum gave several readings. The Forester team from Evansville camp put on a fancy exhibition drill and F. P. Stary, Janesville, and A. H. Baldwin, Madison, gave short addresses. A ball game between the Newark Giants and a Beloit team was a feature of the afternoon. The festivities ended with a dance at the M. W. of A. hall at night.

Blanchard, Lamb, Given Approval of "Dry" League

George W. Blanchard, Edgerton, is classified as "position right"; Otto A. Bach, Janesville, as "wet"; and James R. Lamb, Janesville, as "position right," in a bulletin on candidates for various state offices, issued by the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon League. The three are candidates for assemblyman from the northern half of Rock county. Blanchard and Bach seeking the republican nomination, and Lamb running unopposed on the democratic ticket.

The "dry" league classifies as favorable both H. A. Cooper and Charles Pfennig, candidates for congressman from the First district, but shows Mr. Cooper the preference on account of his many years in congress.

In the second district of Rock county, H. B. Moseley, lone republican candidate for assemblyman, has the league's endorsement of "record right."

The league's recommendation for other legislative candidates in this section are: Green county—William Olson, Rep., assembly record satisfactory; Fred K. Hefty, Rep., wet assembly record.

Jefferson county—Henry W. Stokes, Rep., deserves support on record; John Ewins, Rep., favors modification and enforcement; George Shimnick, Dem., favors modification.

Watworth county—Frank E. Lawson, Rep., assembly record satisfactory; Louis Moser, Rep., dry.

PASTOR TELLS OF MISSIONARY WORK
Speaking before a filled auditorium at both the morning and evening services, the Rev. Thomas Potter, a secretary of the century missionary fund, with offices in Chicago, told how the money was used in pushing forward the Methodist missionary movement, and the good which has already come out of it. Rev. Mr. Potter is on his vacation in Wisconsin.

He was visiting his place, Mrs. Charles Moore, for a few days. His morning subject was "Fourfold Stewardship," and his evening sermon, "The Greatness of the Kingdom." His latter was illustrated with slides showing missionary work in various countries.

The Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, pastor of the Rockville church two years ago, and now pastor of the Christian church at Indianapolis, gave the invocation at the conclusion of the evening service. The Rev. Mr. Smith is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Sorrenson, 534 South Main street.

affected the impressionistic visionary mind of "Babe," who read it while normal boys were playing baseball. He never should have seen it.

"But he got from it while normal boys were playing baseball. He never should have seen it."

"But he got from it finally an obsession that he and his chum, Dickie Loch, were hidden supermen."

Break Under Mania.
Mr. Darrow explained that he had asked Dr. Church, one of the state alienists about religious mania and about the 15 years madness of Nietzsche to show that adult minds break when doctrine is taken too literally.

Mr. Darrow turned to a discussion of the "life of a normal child," pointing out its lack of responsibility and freedom from care.

"The life of a child is a life of delusions and dreams," he said. "Dreams are a part of the wool and warp of childhood. You know that, Judge, and so do I, for I dreamed of repeating the experience of Julius Caesar when he led victorious troops across the Rubicon. I have been there since and found I could step across the stream."

"Perhaps I was lucky, too, that I had no money. We have grown to think it is a misfortune not to have it. But the terrible misfortune in this terrible case is that they had money."

"All Handed Him."
"Before I would fix sentence on a youth," Mr. Darrow said solemnly, "I would recall how the world looked to me when I was a boy."

"What had this boy to do with his life? He was not his own father. He was not his own grandfathers. All this was handed to him. He did not surround himself with governesses and with wealth. And yet he is asked to pay a penalty."

"Shall we hold them responsible?" he shouted at one point. "Shall we deck Chicago as if in holiday and hang them so that the cry for blood may be appeased? Shall we have them suffer contrary to the wisdom of all sages, all the secret, all the great teachers of the ages?"

"To hang these boys would be cruel, an act not of an advancing civilization, but the product of savagery and barbarity from which we are so lately come."

COOLIDGE ARRESTED! BUT HE ISN'T KIN OF THE PRESIDENT

Namesake of President Coolidge's father, but not claiming any relationship to that distinguished family, John Coolidge was arraigned in municipal court here Monday before Judge J. L. Maxfield on a petty larceny charge. Coolidge, who says he might be about a 152nd cousin of the president, but really doesn't know, pleaded not guilty to the charge and his trial was set for Sept. 5 with bail fixed at $500.

"My home is anywhere I hang my hat," said Coolidge. "I have been in Wisconsin about two weeks, having been moving about considerably since I finished service with the Canadian army in the World War."

Coolidge is charged with the theft of two children's books from the home of John Bradt, near Avon, town of Bradford. It is alleged that Coolidge, after working on the farm of Mr. Bradt for two weeks, disappeared Sunday while the family was away. At the same time the family reported the contents of two books, about $5, missing. Sheriff Fred Beley was notified and Coolidge was arrested in Clinton.
